WASTE OF FUEL - One way in which waste fael, is by chopping the logs into suitable length for the stove, instead of sawing them. The waste in chips as well abor, is considerable, Another waste omes from allowing the-wood, after being prepared for feel, to lie out of doors for several mouths, exposed to all weath. ers. Wood should not necessarily be ted a housed while green, but after the winds of March and April have blown through it, should be got under cover. Otherwise, it becomes "dozy," and loses much Feb. 21, 1866. of its value. If housed early, it will remain hard, almost like anthracite coal, and will last very long.

Brood mares that are kept tied in stalls should have an opportunity to excercise every day, either in the yard, or by moderate driving. A liberal supply of water s also essential, as we have known mares o "slink" when they did not get drink for a day or two. Work-horses not required to labor, should be driven moder erately at least once a day, several miles. Teams that are worked hard all winter, ndure the severe fatigue of plowing harowing, etc., much better than if workd but little during the cold weather.

Swine, -Breeding sows require care his month. Do not feed them much eal: They require bulky and light ed. Skimmed milk with bran, or oatneal and boiled potatoes are the best eed. The best feed for young hogs deigned for heavy pork next autumn, is qual quantities of oats and peas, ground he kitchen. Let all swine have warm and clean apartments, well supplied with wo inches long, all the better. SHEEP .- Every animal, whether old or young, that does not get its proper allowance of feed, or that requires a litle extra care, should be separated from he flock and provided with comfortable narters and botter feed, than strong and he weakest lambs may occupy a small partment together. Mutton sheep, as aose to be kept over, should have a few oots daily, to prevent the stretches. lwes that are near yeaning should be onfined in a spacious, but warming partment, so that the lambs may not be hilled and lost by exposure to cold. Iemlock and pine boughs are excellent or all kinds of sheep, and are a substinte for roots.

Ws always plan for the future, for imrovement, for higher success. We always have the past with its experiences of prosperity and adversity of success and failure to draw lessons from. We re now approaching the season of hard work, and he that lays carefully his plans ith reference to it will save himself not only labor, but perplexity and auxiety nough to make all the difference between life of comparative case and satisfacion and one of annoyance and worry. lood plans are the lubrigators of a farner's life. Wheels with well greased wies contentedly "purr" along the road. Work without plan drags, and like a queaky wagon distresses even the passr-by. Let us then lubricate,-and if our readers will use our hints as their agon jack, whey may put the running arts of their farm wagons in good order that they will not require half the eam when the ruts are deep, and before he rouls are settled for the season. Burgess of Pottstown, certifies as follows: FOTTSTOWN, Jan. 3, 1865. This certifies that I have used the Phosnix Pectoral in my family, and I recommend it to the Public as the very best remedy for cough and colds that I have ever tried One of my children was taken with a cold, accompanied with a croupy cough, so bad, indeed, that it could not talk and scarcely breathe. Having heard so much said about the Phonix Pectoral I procured a bottle of it. The first dose relieves the difficulty of breathing, and before the child had taken one found of the boule it was entirely well. Every family should have it in their house.

DEAR Sies - Having realized in my family important benefits from the use of your valuable preparation.-Wiscan's Balsan of Wild Chinay-it affords me pleasure to recommend it to the public. Some eight years ago one of my daughters seemed to be in a decline, and little hopes of her recovery were entertained. I them procured a bottle of your excellent Balsam. and before she had taken the whole of the contents of the bottle there was a great improvement in her health. I have, in my individual case imade frequent use of your volumble medicine, and have always been benefitted by it.
